

IQ PRINCIPLE REFLECTION

Aajiqatigiinniq: Decision making through discussion and consensus

Check in with your body, does it want to stretch out a little bit? Or maybe it wants some deep breaths or even a yawn. Let's begin once you feel settled in.

Decision making through consensus and discussion usually benefits the collective most when all individuals try their best to support and consider others in the discussion of decision making.

Consider where you commonly see this principle play out in day to day life. Maybe in places like work or schools. What might be some environments less thought of when it comes to fostering this principle today? For example, within our homes or close relationships to others.

Why is mutual decision making important in supporting the community and its individuals? Reflect on how you see yourself practicing this principle in your life or a time when you observed this kind of teamwork before.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins or other markings on the paper.